Category #1 : Flow

Category #2 : Passing

Title : Transition Chip 2 on 0

Content elements :

Components:

Key points :

Description

This hockey drill works on a soft dump using a chip off the boards. Players should be in four lines as shown in the diagram. The two lines with pucks should be just below the hash marks. The first player in line with the pucks (P2) start the drill by handling the puck up to the blue line and making a pass to the line in front of them (P1). When P1 receives the puck they skate to towards the middle of the ice to create some separation off the boards and a better passing angle to F2. F2 needs to transition to the outside while always facing the puck. F2 should receive the pass create some separation off the boards so they create an angle and make a soft chip into the zone. F3 is swinging from the other side of the ice and times their break into the zone to retrieve the chip with speed. After they chip the puck into the zone, F2 skates into the slot for a return pass.