Description

This drill works on defense contolling the puck while in transition and then having to adjust to a quick turnover turnover in the neutral zone.The drill starts when D1 skates up to center ice and calls for a pass from F1. F1 makes the pass to D2 and skates up to center ice and around the center ice circle looking for a pass back from D1. D1 should receive the pass skating backwards as in transition. D1 should control the puck and tranistion to forwards to create a good passing angle to F1. F1 receives the pass from D1 and goes in for a shot on net. Right when F1 receives the pass F2 takes on D1 in a one on one in the opposite direction.
