3 V 3 PASS TO COACH

Time: Station:

Objectives: 3 v 3 game where each team is working to possess the puck and pass to each of their teammates so all three players touch the puck. Once all three players have touched the puck they work to pass it to the coach for a point. The goal of the game is for attacking players without puck to win space and provide support to the puck carrier.

Description:

- Three versus three cross ice.
- Coach plays the puck in the zone. Player with puck possession attempts to move and pass to their teammates to keep possession against opponents.
- After three players from same team passed and received the puck at least once, without other team's players touching the puck, they pass the puck back to coach.
- Each pass back to the coach is a point.

Points of emphasis:

- Win space and become a passing option by skating.
- Provide support in tight situation for puck carrier.
- Readiness to transition and regain puck possession after turnover.

Variations:

- Can play in a smaller space or full zone.
- Can have the players pass back to the next player in line instead of the coach.

Content licensed from the International Ice Hockey Federation. All content © IIHF